DEMOCRATIC UNITY (I)
Every voter in Mason county, Democrat, Republican, Progressive and Independent, regardless of political affiliation, should read the two articles published in this issue of The Ledger on the third page. Read, reflect and judge for yourself.

BASEBALL SUNDAY.

Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the Maysville Regulars will play a picked team game of baseball at League Park, the proceeds of which will go to Luttrell McDonald, the star pitcher, who broke his arm two weeks ago when warming up to pitch a game against the fast Manchester Button Makers. Manager Lee Dinger of the Regulars will use Jim Frost on the hump for the Regulars, while Rudy, Ellet or an unknown wonder will occupy the mound for the picked team. This game will probably wind up the first season of the Regulars, who, for their first season out, have been most successful, having defeated some of the best teams in this locality. Remember that the game Sunday will be called at 2:30 o'clock, as the season of the year will not permit it to be called any later.

GOT UNCLE SAM AFTER HIM.

City Attorney John Calhoun, who was trimmed out of a twenty a few days ago by a slick gentleman, who represented himself as a civil engineer of Uncle Sam, made a hurried trip to Cincinnati Thursday in an effort to catch the culprit. Calhoun went to the government office and told the officials his tale of woe. They promised to get the U. S. sleuths after the slick gentleman, as he had staged several other stunts, one of which was representing himself as an officer in the United States army. For this misrepresentation the government will follow him until he is caught. Calhoun might get his twenty back—maybe.

LITERARY PROGRAM THIS AFTERNOON.

The first literary program of the season will be rendered this afternoon by the literary societies of the Maysville High School in the auditorium of that building. The two societies, the Athenaeum and Adelphe, will hold a joint program, the best performers of both societies taking part. Insuring the best there is in the way of a literary program. Plenty of seats have been reserved for the parents of the members of the societies and all should attend.

How To Avoid The Motor Car That Bags At the Knees

The automobile is curiously like the human body—an assembling of independent parts.

The man-machine is made up of muscle and bone, nerve and blood, water and fat, waste matter and brains. As far as locomotion is concerned, neither machine is any stronger than its weakest 'link.'

Mark the badly co-ordinated man. He looks O. K., but when there are stairs to climb or pace to be forced, he puffs and pants, and one concludes that his ruddy color came from a recent facial massage; that his bellows need mending, that his muscles aren't; that his "strength" is mere scenery and that his sound appearance is mostly tailor made.

Haven't you seen automobiles just like that, look "pretty" but won't take you from Here to There and Back?

The "Wonder Car" that the Square Deal Man sells won't 'bag at the knees,' and he can prove by the testimony of delighted owners that it will take you There and Back, not once, but many times, and that it is the lowest "After Cost" car on the market today. If you are a prospective car owner, phone us and we will be glad to take you for a trial spin in the Maxwell "25."

French Modistes Were so Charmed With the Pantalette Idea (Although they Were Worn Way Back in 1853) That They Decided to Adopt It and Worked Out This Charming Model for Fall Wear. So Popular Has It Become Abroad, That Over Here, the Petticoat Manufacturers Are Already Beginning to Make Plans to Offset its Effect on Their Industry. The Model is a Three-Piece Street Costume. The Pantaleons and Waist Are Combined. The Material Used Is Black Broadcloth Trimmed With Russian Fitch.

ALMOST COMPLETED.

Carpenters are placing the large windows in position in the new Everett building on East Second street, and the building will soon be ready for occupation. This building and the new Modern Laundry Company's building nearby, will greatly improve the looks of that section of the street.

BANKS WILL CLOSE.

All the banks of the city will close Saturday at 12 o'clock in order to give the employees an opportunity to attend the Democratic barbecue in Crumley's woods.

The many friends of Mrs. J. W. Toile, of East Front street, who has been seriously ill with rheumatism for the last four weeks, will be glad to know that she is improving.

Come and hear Mr. Edison's favorite records at Kackley's this week. Concert every day.

MOVIES OF BARBECUE

Washington Opera House Management Makes Arrangements To Snap Big Event—Will Be Shown Here During the Week.

Manager Thomas M. Russell, of the Washington Opera House, has closed a deal by which the big Democratic barbecue will be filmed and shown at the Washington.

Manager Russell will have an expert camera man on the ground at Cartmell's woods Saturday and every movie of interest will be snapped and shown during the coming week.

This is not the first time that this progressive theater has taken films of events that have taken place in this city. The film showing Maysville and her industries, which was taken last winter, enjoyed a sensational run in this city and in some of the neighboring towns. Manager Russell will no doubt show the film of the barbecue in several of the nearby towns. This should prove a drawing card, as a number of the small towns in this vicinity will send large delegations to the big event.

MAYSVILLE BRASS BAND HOLDS PRACTICE.

The newly-organized Maysville Brass Band held a practice session Thursday evening at their quarters in the old rink building. The band will play at the Democratic barbecue at Cartmell's woods, on the Mapleleaf pike, on Saturday, and last evening's practice was to select music for the occasion. The Maysville Band is fast becoming popular with the citizens of this locality and their services are very much in demand at all occasions. The band now boasts of twenty members, with the prospect of several more being added. Sometime during the winter the organization will stage a large minstrel show to procure money to purchase instruments and uniforms.

MAYSVILLE MEN SHOWERED WITH HONORS.

Thursday evening Messrs. A. G. Sulser and S. P. Browning returned from the annual meeting of the Grand Lodge, F. & A. M., at Louisville, which was in session for several days this week. While attending the meeting the Maysville men were appointed to several high positions, Mr. Sulser being re-appointed a member of the finance committee, while Mr. Browning was appointed on the committee which has charge of a sum of money to be used in vocational training of some of the graduates of the Masonic Widows' and Orphans' Home. The gentlemen report a fine time and declare the citizens of Louisville are royal hosts.

DEATH OF MRS. JOHN RYAN.

Mrs. John Ryan, aged 57, died Thursday night at 11 o'clock at her home on the Germantown pike, a few miles from this city, after a long illness.

She is survived by her husband, Mr. John Ryan, a substantial farmer, and four children, Misses Agnes, Elizabeth and Ethlyn and Mr. John Ryan, all residents of this county. Mrs. Ryan was a sister of Mr. William Foley, of Minerva.

The funeral will occur—Monday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Patrick's church, this city, and the interment will follow at Washington cemetery.

MEMORIAL SERVICE.

A memorial service will be held in the Sardis M. E. church, Sunday, October 24, at 11 a. m., for Rev. Clarence Reid, who was licensed to preach at Sardis in 1874 and served as a missionary in China for thirty years. Rev. Mr. Reid died on October 7.

The memorial service will be conducted by Rev. Peter Walker. Addresses will be made by Messrs. W. W. Ball, Walter Worthington and J. S. Woodward.

THREE BIG PARTY.

Several of the candidates for Councilmanic honors threw a big party Thursday night to the colored voters in their wards. The affair took place in a colored lodge hall and from reports from those attending, it was a big affair. Before long these parties will be regular social functions and some great times will be had.

TO VISIT LONG-ABSENT BROTHER.

Mr. A. J. McDougle, of Charleston Bottoms, left Thursday afternoon for Remington, Ind., for a visit to his brother, whom he has not seen for over half a century. Mr. McDougle, although over 80 years of age, will make the trip alone. Despite his great age he is very spry and would be taken for a much younger man.

Flemingsburg Times-Democrat: Mrs. Ellen McBrayer, of Pineville, Ky., has been here the last few days on a visit to her niece, Mrs. Jesse Vize. On Monday they both went to Aberdeen, O., to visit their sister and mother, Mrs. William Blanton, it being the first time Mrs. McBrayer and Mrs. Blanton had met in twenty-eight years.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hopper, of East Third street, were registered at the Capitol Hotel at Frankfort Tuesday night.

DEMOCRACY VERSUS BOSSISM AND DEMAGOGUERY.

Editor Public Ledger:

Messrs. Ollie James and Owsley Stanley are coming here Saturday to tell the voters of Mason county why they should vote for Stanley for the highest office in the gift of the people, the Governor of Kentucky. Judging by what they have said in other places we can safely infer what they will say here. They will tell you, among many other things, that to save the country in the next Presidential election, and elect their peerless leader, Woodrow Wilson, they must follow their leader. We will see.

When the vote came up in Congress for an amendment to the Constitution granting suffrage to the women of the United States, Mr. Stanley voted against it, saying it was a matter for the States to decide, and we can find no record that Mr. James voted for it. When a delegation of Kentucky women asked the Democratic convention at Louisville to put in a plank submitting the question of woman suffrage to the voters of the State, they were turned down. We met our Waterloo in the house of our friends. Will these gentlemen kindly explain their apparent bad faith and insincerity? They were not asked to endorse or vote for woman suffrage, only to submit to the voters of the State.

The fundamental principle of democracy is to let the people rule. Are they following their leader? Woodrow Wilson voted in his home State Wednesday for woman suffrage. They refused to even allow a vote on the question in their home State. They can not plead that weightier matters claim their attention, for there is no question of the hour that has deeper, wider or higher significance than the enfranchisement of women. We women of Kentucky appeal to the men of Kentucky by every law of social evolution to give us a share in the political progress of the age.

You can do this by voting for Edwin Morrow, for the platform upon which he is making his race has a plank submitting the question of woman suffrage to the voters of Kentucky.

A LIFE-LONG DEMOCRAT.

RALLY AND PROMOTION DAY AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH SUNDAY.

Next Sunday is to be a great day at the Baptist church; it is Rally Day for both church and Sunday school, and every member of each is expected to be among those who are present. It will also be promotion day in the Sunday school and every parent is urged to be present to enjoy the children's part of the program.

Mr. B. H. Greenlee, the wide-awake superintendent of the Sunday school, has arranged a most helpful as well as interesting Rally Day program, and if you want to have a really worthwhile Sunday, just head the following Rally Day acrostic:

Relying on your Assistance, attendance and
Loyal support, we joyfully
Look forward, expecting
Your presence with us.

Do not forget—at 9:30 next Sunday, At the Baptist Bible school, You are to be on hand

Join us in song,
Unite with us in worship.
Bring some friend,
Invite everybody you meet.
Let all members and friends, all
Enthusiastically work for an Enjoyable program.

Next Sunday is the last time the pastor will be with his people until November 8, since he leaves Monday to help Dr. N. F. Jones in a two-weeks' revival effort at Dayton, Ky. He is, therefore, especially anxious for every member of the church to attend the morning rally and to hear his special message on "A Grand Victory."

Any "shut-in" who desires to be present, can call 188 and the pastor will have an automobile to call for them.

TAKEN YOUNG NEGRO GIRLS HOME

Thursday, Chief of Police W. F. Link, of Paris, was in this city to take home Lucille Hathway, aged 14, and Louise Bedinger, aged 15, two young negro girls who ran away from their homes in that city several days ago and who were arrested by Night Sergeant Harry Walsh Wednesday night. The girls came to this city with an aged uncle who deserted them after getting them in this city. They stayed at the home of a friend on Fourth street for several days, and were there at the time of their arrest. When asked why they left their homes they said they had come to this city to meet a traveling man who they claimed was their father. However he did not show up and they were left to their own resources.

SHOULD BE STOPPED.

The residents in the neighborhood of Graves alley are much worried these nights by the loud talk and rough acting of some of the citizens of that neighborhood. Coal heavers seem to take the alley as a thoroughfare for their carts and all night the rattle of wheels of the carts containing stolen coal from the cars of the passing C. & O. railroad can be heard. The police have caught several of the heavers, but there are still many at large. A raid in this district will be sure to bring peace to the law-abiding residents of that neighborhood.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE

Man Fell Between Cars of Moving Freight Train But Escapes Injury—"Comes Up Smiling," and Wants a Drink.

Thursday afternoon about 2 o'clock, Frank Montague, aged 36, of Baltimore, Md., who has been working on Dinn No. 33, above this city, for the last six months, had a miraculous escape from death.

Montague had been drinking and in one of his speeches said that he was going to work on the dam being built at New Richmond, O. A friend, upon hearing this, loaned him a dollar, as he did not wish him to go without money. Upon receiving the money Montague left the saloon in which he had been drinking and caught Freight Train No. 806 at the foot of Market street. He climbed aboard the train which was running at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour, and got on top of the C. & O. depot he in some manner fell head foremost from the top of the car upon which he was sitting, between the cars, to the track below, a drop of about ten feet. After hitting the ground he had presence of mind enough to heed the cries of Section Boss Broshers and his men, who were working nearby, and did not try to crawl from under the fast moving train.

As soon as the train passed, Broshers and his men rushed to the side of Montague, expecting to find him in a mangled condition. Much to their surprise, he was not injured, with the exception of a few bruises he received in his headlong fall between the moving cars. As soon as they were at his side he asked for a drink of liquor.

Dr. A. O. Taylor, the C. & O. physician, was called to the scene and after a thorough examination of Montague, pronounced him injured in no way. He was placed on the handcar of the section crew and hauled to the foot of Market street, where he was turned over to the Police Department. Those who saw the accident all remark that Montague is about the luckiest man born.

WELCOME TO MR. STANLEY.

Mr. Stanley, the Democratic nominee for Governor, is coming to Lexington to make a speech. This will be welcome news to a good many persons hereabouts. Mr. Stanley is always interesting. He has a flow of language which at times is positively bewildering, and when he makes verbal assaults upon those who do not subscribe to his views, he is particularly engaging.

For example, Mr. Stanley, in July, 1914, was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator. One of his opponents was ex-Governor Beckham. Speaking in Lexington the night of July 31, and referring to Mr. Beckham and some of his friends, Mr. Stanley said:

"Then next we see him (Beckham) with one dimpled hand placed trustingly in the cadaverous clutch of Percy Haly and the other in the itching palm of Sam Shackelford, and together they lead him to the lair of Richard W. Knott, who is changeless as original sin in everything that is evil."

When a man can use words in that way, although he may get his Biblical characters badly mixed now and then, it is worth while traveling some distance to see him perform.

Doubtless Senator Beckham and General Haly, and Samuel Shackelford, to say nothing of Urey Woodson and Rufus Vansant, will be in Lexington when Mr. Stanley speaks on the 24th, and occupy seats on the stage.

But seriously, there are a lot of people who will be glad to hear Mr. Stanley speak in Lexington before the campaign closes.

Many people hereabouts really would like to vote a lot of these are readers of the as the saying goes, "Nearly as the Leader"—and that is one reason the Leader has been endeavoring to get information possible as to Mr. Stanley's views on the great political and moral issues of the day.

Mr. Stanley speaks in Lexington, therefore, anxious inquirers will have opportunity from Mr. Stanley's own lips just what he has to say about these things. The tenor of his remarks may determine how they will vote.

He will doubtless deny that he said in Mr. McCormack's presence, as stated by the Lieutenant Governor, that he was not only opposed to the tariff, but had "always been opposed to it. No doubt hasten to declare that he does not mean a word of the record made by Mr. Barksdale as Superintendent of Public Instruction. Perhaps explain whether or not his recent "rotation in office" and "ring rule" referred to those gentlemen on the stage with him who have been holding office for twenty years.

He will be able to explain to whom Inspector referred when, after his examination of Secretary of State Creelins, he used "fraud," "theft," "mutilation of public property," etc.

Doubtless explain why the State Legislature—when the Republican were in control—House of Representatives—managed to pass an expense account of $70,000, the cost of the 1914 session was $144,549, and the cost in 1896.

These are some of the things—and they are not by any means—which the taxpayers of Lexington and Fayette county would like to have Mr. Stanley discuss before they go to the polls November 2.

They would like to have these subjects discussed calmly, sanely and candidly, without an amazing display of verbal pyrotechnics and Shakespearean fireworks, and without reference to whether Noah was drunk on wine or singings or what the "ear-baggers" did in South Carolina in 1866.—Lexington Leader.

The suggestion that we protect our markets from European "dumping" at the close of the year by having our consuls refuse to sign manifests such goods is worthy of this administration's policy of exalting individual, official judgment at the expense of enforcement of law. Under such a plan we have a Supreme Court in every consulate, and more than fifty-seven varieties of judgment at our disposal against "dumping" we need a tariff law, uniformly administered. Such a law will be enacted by the Republican Congress next year.

You know about the Buffalo man who was killed because the little fellow was first of the month?

THE RULES OF THE SENATE.

The President is said to be undecided about calling an extra session of the Senate. He would like to "hear from the country" on the subject. Inasmuch as one—perhaps the chief—reason for calling such a session is to try to pass a cloture bill in order to jam through the ship purchase bill, it may be said with truth that the country has already spoken on the subject. We do not refer now to the poll of its membership which was taken by the National Chamber of Commerce and which was so overwhelmingly adverse to the ship purchase bill, but to the general verdict which the country has passed upon those Senators—Democratic and Republican—who joined, under the Senate rules as they are, to defeat the measure. These men have forfeited none of the favor of their constituents, no one of them has been rebuked for his opposition to the bill, and no one of them, so far as we have heard, is coming back to Washington prepared to knuckle down to the President on this question. They know that the country approves of their action—and the President might know it, too, if he would take the trouble to inform himself.

The fact is that there is no call for the ship purchase bill; and, therefore, there is no call for a cloture rule in the Senate. Unlimited debate, as now provided by the Senate rules, has never prevented the enactment of any measure which the people have demanded; it never has, in fact, prevented the enactment of any legislation which a successful party platform has called for. In the Senate rules permit the stifling of any legislation, good or bad, which a lusty group of filibusters may determine to kill. In practice, the mortality is always among the unfit. Unlimited debate in the Senate has saved the country from some very unwise legislation; it has never deprived the country of any necessary or helpful laws.

DOING GOOD WORK.

For several weeks past Police Chief James Mackey and his police force have been engaged in ridding Maysville of the street loafers and bums, who have infested the streets of this city for years.

This is a move in the right direction and should have been begun years ago. So far Police Chief Mackey has done good work and the city is almost free of these parasites of society. He has on every occasion caused the arrest of these bums wherever they appeared upon our streets, and Police Judge John L. Whitaker has sentenced the loafers to hard work on the rock pile, or given them the option of leaving the city. This is as it should be.

There is no excuse for any man loafing or loitering in Maysville, with all of the improvements now going on and the building of the dam. Work is plentiful for those who want it, but there is no room for the loafer and the bum, and they should be kept moving.

Chief Mackey and his assistants are to be congratulated for their work, and The Ledger trusts they will keep it up.

A national conference of Progressive party leaders recently held in New York decided to go on with the party. This decision was partly nullified on the same day by a higher authority—the Supreme Court of New Jersey, one of its justices signing an order barring the Bull Moose from the ticket in the New Jersey primaries because at the last general election the party failed to poll 5 per cent of the total vote cast and thus is not a party within the eyes of the law.

With Black as Lieutenant Governor representing the "dry" forces, and Stanley representing the "wets" in the Governor's chair, the Democrats would present a sorry spectacle of unity. But this will not be. Tomorrow, with a clean ticket, is going to be elected by a good safe majority.

It looks as if the Democrats were up against the real thing with Morrow heading the Republican ticket. It will take more than barbed wire and "bungo" to hoodwink the voters this year, Mr. Democrat.

Wonder what Stanley will do if he is elected Governor with a "dry" Lieutenant Governor controlling legislation in the Senate? He won't be able to keep his promises to certain interests (?) we opine.

We need some regulation on the tax system of Kentucky. It's the worst in the United States, but with Democrats in power we can never hope for relief. Vote the "Log Cabin" straight and get justice.

Champ Clark's prediction that Roosevelt will be the Republican nominee in 1916 shows that he ought to be more from Missouri than he appears to be.—Commercial-Tribune.

"Prosperity" is the slogan of the Republicans this year. Vote the "Log Cabin" straight and boost prosperity into your business, Mr. Business Man.

It's up to you, Mr. Voter, to get honest and efficient State government. Vote the Republican ticket straight and you'll get a "square deal."

A Perfectly Good Husband.

Two small boys belonging to the divorce colony in Reno, Nevada, met on the street one day. Billy's mamma, a divorcee, had just married the ex-husband of another divorcee.

"So you've got a new papa, Billy," remarked Harry.

"Yes," rejoined Billy. "Mamma found a perfectly good husband that some other lady threw away."—Judge.

ONE NATIONAL ISSUE.

Only Question in the Election Next Year.

Voters Who Have Felt the Pinch of an Unwise Tariff Will Demand a Return to Sanity and Prosperity.

The European war may still be under way when the rival political clans in the United States begin their campaign for the presidency a year from now, but the chances that the struggle will have been finished by that time are infinitely better.

However, it is very unlikely that the war will play much part in determining the presidential election. It is a mistake that the public is unlikely to change horses in the middle of the stream, but there have been so few war presidents that the proverb has never had a very thorough test. If war should continue, the Republicans doubtless would nominate a man whose diplomacy and conservatism is known throughout the country, the kind of statesman who would be certain to preserve peace so long as it could be done without impairing the honor or dignity of the United States.

But the probability is that the war will be over by the time the two political parties line up for battle. There will then be but one national issue—prosperity. No other questions will be permitted to obscure that central issue. The millions of men who have felt the pinch of a tariff that does not protect American industries are waiting for a chance to express themselves on that issue. The thousands of business men who have been harassed for so long a time are waiting for their linings at the polls.

Not Rocking the Boat.

One of the most significant things, said by Mr. Gary in his admirable address to the American Iron and Steel Institute in New York, was that it was not the American business man who "was rocking the boat."

This should not be overlooked at a time when superserviceable defenders of all the Wilson policies try to put the stigma of unpatriotic conduct on those who differ with any of the sacred ideas that are set out in Washington. In other words, they apply the term "rocking the boat" not only to men and things, but to the thoughtful and serious objections of the most conservative elements in the country to ill-considered legislation of an anti-social character that is now coming home to plague its creators.

The business man is exercising his rights as an American to ask for redress and to set out his position is not "rocking the boat." The people "who rocked the boat" were the leaders who committed the president to the trade policies which upset the country.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Good Ex-President.

Not often has the nation had a wiser ex-president than William H. Taft. In every complication that the present administration has faced—and it surely has had more than its share of complications—Mr. Taft has advised the people to stand steadfastly by the administration. In the present crisis he has refused to say anything that might embarrass the president, but has, on the contrary, told the people that he was in every way worthy of their support and confidence. In nothing has Mr. Taft done so much to deserve the respect and affection of the country as in the policy that he has uniformly observed in his retirement. He has shown himself to be what every one knew that he was—a true patriot.—Indianapolis News.

Must Be Protectionists.

The case of Germany is cited as an example of a nation which puts its tariff-making business in the hands of experts. These experts, however, are frankly protectionists. If the United States ever establishes a permanent tariff commission, it will have to be composed of protectionists. The American people believe thoroughly in protection, as has been shown whenever the issue was presented squarely. They will never stand for a hybrid "nonpartisan" commission, flapping about like a boat without a rudder.

COLOR SIMULATION IN FISHES.

Some curious observations on the adaptation of fishes to the shade color and pattern of their surroundings have been made by S. O. Mast at the United States biological station at Beaufort, N. C. The quickness and completeness of the changes are especially notable in flounders. In glass vessels, these fishes become nearly white on a white ground, nearly black on a black ground, and also became adapted to various colors, red being the exception. Patterns were not exactly limited, though fine and coarse patterns of the ground produced fine and coarse patterns in the skin. Changes from white to black took place in two minutes in a flounder that had been frequently changed from white to black pans, but after two weeks in a white pan the change to maximum blackness required five days in a black pan. To change from black to white always required an hour or more, color changes being still slower, the taking on of yellow being more rapid than that of green or blue. The changes in color and pattern are due to rearrangement of black and yellow cells of the skin called chromatophores, and to the degree of the hiding of these cells by opaque white cells called iridocytes. It is the eye that regulates the changes. With one end of the fish on black and the other on white, the whole body took on the black or white that was in front of the eyes, and when one eye saw black and the other white, the whole fish turned to gray.

REWARD OF PEACE.

In a year when half the world is torn by armed conflict, with Europe a shambles, and Mexico, the country along our southern borderland, racked with anarchy and in ruins, the United States establishes a world's record for products of the farm, says Cleveland Plain Dealer. This country matches the waste and destruction of Europe with a harvest unprecedented in abundance, of the choicest gifts of nature. The lives of millions of men and the suffering and sorrow of yet more millions of women and children is the toll of war. More than 3,000,000,000 bushels of corn, 1,500,000,000 of oats and 1,000,000,000 of wheat, coupled with a bounteous yield of all other products of the soil, is the reward of peace. The 1915 wheat crop of the United States is the largest ever grown in any country. The 1,000,000,000 bushels means $1,000,000,000 in money. The value of the corn crop will approximate $2,500,000,000. Along with this go tremendous crops of rye, potatoes, rice, hay and tobacco. The storehouse of nature has never been opened wider.

Marvelous as were the discoveries of such prehistoric monsters as the mammoth, the mastodon and the stegosaurus, they are now eclipsed by recent investigations which show the most minute microbes and bacteria in fossil form. The ancestors of our modern infectious disease germs and microbes have been found in fossils of the earliest life on the earth. Fossil bacteria have been discovered in very ancient limestones collected by Dr. Charles D. Walcott, secretary of the Smithsonian institution, in Gallatin county, Montana. The bacteria consist of cells which correspond in their physical appearance with the cells of micrococci, a form of bacteria of today. The world has believed that bacteria were modern forms of life, but now we are made to realize that they existed in the dawn of world history, many million years ago.

A recent number of the Berlin Medical Weekly notes the excellent quality of work done by United States manufacturers of artificial limbs. One case is cited of a subject who eight years ago in America had suffered amputation of both arms and both legs as a result of gangrene following severe electrical burns. "The man," says the medical journal, "after six months' practice in exercising the stumps was supplied with four artificial limbs by an American manufacturer. He became able then to earn his living; could walk without a limp and had covered without a cane 11½ miles in a day. He was able to feed himself, to dress and undress and in fact seemed to show no great incapacity." It was proposed to show him for moral effect to soldiers who had lost limbs in battle.

A traveling museum that goes to the public schools, with illustrative material at the time it is needed, is successfully used by the St. Louis, Mo., schools, according to a bulletin issued by the United States bureau of education. The traveling museum has 7,000 individual and duplicate collections, 4,000 lantern slides, 8,000 stereoscopic views and 2,000 colored charts and photographs. The school authorities make a point of the fact that there is nothing in the traveling museum which cannot be used in direct connection with the work of the schools. It contains no curiosities or abnormalities—no freaks of nature.

WEAK KIDNEYS MAKE WEAK BODIES. Kidney Diseases Cause Many Aches and Pains of Maysville People.

As one weak link weakens a chain, so may weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking-down.

Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys and generally when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers. Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills frequently come, and there is an ever-increasing tendency towards dropsy, gravel or fatal Bright's disease. AMENDMENTS TO STATE CONSTITUTION

Important Questions To Be Voted Upon At the Election in Kentucky in November.

Amendments to the Kentucky constitution will be voted upon at the election in November. The one of greatest interest provides for the extension of power to the General Assembly for the enactment of laws to divide property into classes for the purpose of taxation and to determine what class or classes of property shall be subject to local taxation. The amendment also provides for exemption from taxation bonds of the State and of counties, municipalities and school tax districts. It also provides that laws passed pursuant to said amendment shall be subject to the referendum power of the people. The other constitutional amendment to be voted provides for the employment of convicts to construct and maintain public roads and bridges.

DEMOCRATIC UNITY(?)

Hon. J. A. Sullivan Arraigns the Democrats for Throwing Down Vansant and McDermott—Latter on Account of His Religious Beliefs

Courier-Journal to Help State-Wide Prohibition If A. O. Stanley Is Not Elected—Democratic Harmony Widely at Variance

Below The Ledger publishes the letter of Hon. J. A. Sullivan to Col. Desha Breckinridge, published in The Lexington Herald on Sunday, September 26, 1915. It is full of interesting reading.

Following this comes the great editorial of Col. Henry Watterson in The Courier-Journal on October 6, 1915, wherein his paper threatens to urge the vote for State-wide Prohibition if Stanley and his ticket is not elected.

Surely these two articles, written at different times, do not indicate that all is serene in the ranks of the Democratic party. The talk about Democrats being united in this campaign is a much mooted question.

Read the articles and judge for yourself.

(Lexington Herald, Sunday, September 26, 1915.)

The Hon. J. A. Sullivan, who was vice chairman of the campaign committee for Kentucky in 1911, when Governor McCreary was elected by 31,000 plurality over Judge Ed. C. O'Rear, last week wrote a letter to the editor of the Herald, which contained so much of valued political information that he was requested to permit its publication, though it was a personal letter. Judge Sullivan complied with the request. The letter follows: Lexington, Ky., Sept. 21, 1915. Hon. Desha Breckinridge, Lexington, Ky.

My Dear Desha: As you see, I am here at the St. Joseph's Hospital, Lexington, Ky., and have been here several days, and hope to remain some days longer.

This institution is a credit to Lexington and Fayette county, and it would be to a city the size of Louisville. The thanks of the whole Blue Grass, because of this institution are due not only the Catholics but the Protestants of Fayette county and the city of Lexington. It is presided over by a most intelligent woman, Sister Ephrasia; she is an able, far-seeing, wise and holy woman. The recent addition to this building, aside from furniture, alone cost about $125,000; and the furniture is extremely valuable in it, and every room is well furnished, and most of the rooms are furnished by individuals and lodges. For instance this room I am in is elegantly furnished by a Jew. Anybody that will come and stay in this institution will see the truth and merit of your editorial on Sister Ephrasia on her Golden Jubilee as a member of the Order of Nazareth.

I read with great interest the proceedings of the Democratic State Convention held recently at Louisville, Ky., and, as a great Kentuckian used to say, I was simply "thunder struck" at the proceedings of that convention. I fully endorse your criticism of its shortcomings and misdoings, not only in the editorial but in the news columns of your paper. It was a shame and disgrace for the Democratic State Convention to expel a great leader like Vansant as chairman of the State Committee, without giving a hearing, and at a convention called for a different purpose, and for one purpose only, and that to formulate and promulgate a platform for the State and local tickets this year.

Four years ago Vansant was elected State Campaign Chairman at a time when he was not on the committee at all, and I was elected vice chairman. Shortly after our election, and without soliciting their advice, we were told by eminent wet statesmen that the ticket would get beat; that we could not raise any money to run the campaign on, and that we had just as well lock up the headquarters at Louisville and go home. General W. B. Haldeman said he was out, that the convention had failed to follow his views, and there was no further responsibility on him in regard to the ticket; that the action of the convention relieved him thereby, and he did not even call at headquarters during the entire campaign. And as you know, the Courier-Journal and Times held down on the ticket.

Another thing that infuriated the eminent statesmen, like General W. B. Haldeman and others I think, was that McCreary and McDermott and the balance of the ticket selected a campaign committee of business men headed by Vansant, who has honestly made over a million of dollars, rising from an Eastern Kentucky wagon boy to a high position in finance and business; and Vansant was surrounded by such men as Johnson N. Camden, who was by far the wealthiest man in the State of Kentucky; the late John C. C. Mayo, Colonel P. H. Callahan, Dr. Gatliff and every one of the foregoing men has made over a million of dollars—and on the same committee was W. C. Montgomery, a distinguished banker, and I was on it, by invitation.

It is unnecessary to discuss this matter further, but I will say that the expelling of Vansant from that committee after the party had won the greatest victory it has in recent years since the war, was undemocratic, unwise, cowardly and ungrateful. It was done to punish him for his independence, and instigated by his enemies, to whom he would not submit or bend the neck or bow the knee.

The expulsion of Woodson from the National Committee was also unwise, unjust and illegal. Woodson supported the ticket four years ago loyally and with his newspaper did far more good than the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times combined, as did other papers during that campaign. It was Woodson who disclosed the hypocrisy of the Republican party in the 1911 campaign, which claimed to be such a pious county unit party, when they selected as their campaign treasurer a distiller of Owensboro, John W. McCulloch. Can it be that these services rendered by him to the Democratic party inspired the anger of some of our alleged Democratic statesmen?

Of course the expulsion of other Democratic committeemen by the recent convention was unjust but I suppose it was necessary to have Edwards on the committee. He had been induced to enter the race for Lieutenant Governor against his best judgment, and under the promise of victory, and he was defeated. His law firm has, I am informed, represented the liquor association and he is the leading criminal lawyer of Louisville.

Besides, you see, the Louisville Stanley crowd possibly had another grievance against Vansant and Woodson, as well as yourself, in this; that each of you had the hardihood to support McDermott for Governor in the primary after they had raised the anti-Catholic flag, and on this topic the Courier-Journal was following in the steps of the Bloody Monday of six years ago last August by his daring and inflammatory editorials against the Catholics; and Watterson seems to have thought that the fear of another Bloody Monday would deter voters from voting for McDermott but in this he ignominiously failed, in the city of Louisville, at least. I think that George D. Prentice, in his course against Catholics in bringing about the Bloody Monday, damned himself everlasting in Kentucky. I know at heart Colonel Watterson is not a religious bigot, but the public can judge him only by his editorials. Who induced him to write such editorials I do not know and can not conceive.

I regret the defeat of McDermott very much. It was everywhere admitted that by far he was the best qualified man to act as Governor, and every sentiment of pride should have impelled the Democrats to give his candidacy more consideration than they did. He became the nominee of the Democratic party in Louisville many years ago for Congress and carried every precinct in the city except the two precincts in which his two opponents lived, in the Democratic primary. But he was defeated in the regular election of that year because he was a Catholic, and yet when the religious issue of four years ago was raised in Kentucky and it seemed as if, because of that the party was going to be defeated in Kentucky, Mr. McDermott, against his will and against his own interest, consented to become a candidate and to sacrifice himself for the party, and agreed to run on the ticket for Lieutenant Governor. The result of the recent primary election shows that there is not religious liberty in Kentucky, so far as Catholics are concerned, except in a few Catholic counties in one Congressional District. I mean that the mass of the Protestants in Kentucky do not know what religious liberty is in the Democratic party. They think it means just liberty to live and liberty of the Protestants to hold all the important offices.

I will not discuss this any further but I do not mean to say that there are not in every county in Kentucky quite a large number of intelligent voters who are for real religious liberty; and to those Protestants who have religious liberty in their hearts and minds it is almost impossible for them to think that there is great religious bigotry in the State, and such people have written a good many letters since the primary explaining the light vote that McDermott got in most of the counties. For instance, one letter from a Baptist in one of the largest Democratic counties in Kentucky says: "Until a short time before the primary McDermott had a strong following in this county and it looked like he was going to carry the county. The leading Democrats were for him but as soon as the Stanley followers and McCreary followed because of his religion his support withered and left me as the only active man in the county outspoken for him. Hence the small vote he received. If the fact that a man is a Catholic and worships God according to his own wishes is a bar in the Democratic party for him to be nominated to occupy an exalted office, the time will come, and may come sooner than you think, when the Democratic emblem will be a bar to Catholics and people who love religious liberty voting the Democratic ticket."

I do not want to see such a day but I do know that there is no religious liberty in the Democratic party in Kentucky, taking the masses, except in a few counties and except a few most honorable men in each and every county, and that there are more bigots than some of our people think there are. In the recent primary some bigots surrounded Stanley and were led by Haldeman and Watterson and other newspapers and other preachers surrounded McCreary in his bigoted campaign led by an ex-Catholic, Percy Haly. Some Democrats seem to forget that the Catholics in Kentucky hold far more than the balance of power between the two parties, and yet according to the last census there are nineteen States of the Union in each of which the majority of citizens are Catholics, even including the great States of New York, Massachusetts, New Jersey and others. And yet Woodrow Wilson has not appointed a single Catholic to a single important national office, either at home or abroad, and has appointed more Protestant preachers to good offices than any President who ever sat in Washington. I fear he has got what Dr. Berck called an Ulster mind.

The administration of Andrew Jackson reached the highest limit of any Democratic President in the belief and in the principle of religious liberty and of all the succeeding administrations it seems to me that the administrations of McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft have given the people of America religious liberty, practically, although very few Catholics, comparatively, are Republicans. I do not underestimate Woodrow Wilson's great ability or the splendid service he has done the republic as President, but I think if he had pursued Democratic policies and given us a real Democratic administration, so far as religious liberty is concerned he would have made even better.

I do not want you to understand, nor do I mean to say, that Stanley is a bigot; I don't think he is, and I have known him since boyhood, but I don't like the company he keeps, as Watterson says. I am no hero-worshipper of Woodrow Wilson, and I am going to support the Democratic State ticket this year, not because Woodrow Wilson will be running next year, but because I want to see Democratic government continued in Kentucky. I do not want to see any step backward taken by abolishing certain departments established at the State capital under the present administration and which were promised by both the Democratic and Republican parties in their platforms four years ago, the most important of which costs the taxpayers of Kentucky nothing and most of which new departments are added in their maintenance by Federal money and are necessary.

I have written very much longer than I expected. I will be glad to see you while I am here. Hoping to hear from you soon, I am, with best wishes,
Your friend,
J. A. SULLIVAN.

THE COURIER-JOURNAL

Will Help To Hasten Statewide Vote If Stanley Is Not Elected.

Read what Marse Henry says in his editorial in the issue of the Courier-Journal of October 6, 1915. It is some strong language:

The Simple Truth.
"It is reported and believed here that Stanley is defeated for Governor of Kentucky the Courier-Journal will come out for State-wide prohibition. (Special telegram from Louisville in New York American.)

What the Courier-Journal will do, and ought to do, in the unlikely event of Stanley's defeat, it is not for the space-writer of any news service to forecast or intimate; but premising such an event, the Courier-Journal itself is free in candor to say that it would regard it as the Thermopylae of its efforts to save Kentucky, as a State, from the evils which have everywhere followed the union of religion and politics in government, and Louisville, as a city, from the semi-religious inevitable to the annihilation of one of its leading industries.

With destruction staring them in the face, the Courier-Journal is loth to say a word of those engaged in the business of distilling and brewing which may add a straw to the load of obloquy they have had at all times to bear. In many ways it has shared with them a portion of that obloquy. Yet, as they very well know, at no time has it been of them, or their counsels. Often, indeed, it has seriously disapproved their proceeding.

The accusation that they seek to control the politics of the State and that they constitute the "invisible government," of which we hear so much, is true only to the degree that their aim, and their single aim, has been to protect themselves from extirpation. Theirs is a property, therefore, not a political interposition. They are like most other industries divided by the usual party lines. As a body they have no party belonging. But, as an incident of their fight for existence, they have had to deal with Legislatures and legislation, and, as a consequence of this, they have appeared to be "in politics," when they have been most unwilling intruders, and, in point of fact, actual victims of infamous extortion, often from men posing as prohibitionists.

They have had and they have our sympathy. But, if the true Democrats of Kentucky, who, under the heroic Stanley, are making a last rally for genuine Democracy, for sound, orderly and responsible government, fall for any cause to carry the election, it will mean, it can be, but one thing, and that is that all the powers of darkness will be let loose next winter at Frankfort. It will be that Kentucky is marked for the desolation and degradation into which the joint agencies of fanaticism and corruption have plunged Tennessee. The Heavily Twins will sit in the saddle. Republicanism equally with Democracy will be sacrificed to Graft expressed in personal ambition and private greed. Fusion and confusion will lend their helping hand. Factionism unsparing of men and parties will reign. The flood-gates of corruption will be opened and every rogue and rascal will sharpen his ax upon the ready grindstone of Statewide and Anti-Statewide toward an end easy enough to foresee.

Between itself and the campaign of obstruction the "liquor interests" will begin in the event that the issue is not laid by the election of Stanley, and the Democratic ticket, the Courier-Journal draws the line. It will go no further in the effort to stave off the inevitable. On the contrary, it will speed the day and welcome the final and definite settlement of the question by a direct vote of the people.

It has for twenty-five years made a brave and honest fight for good government and Democratic principles against fanaticism and factionism. This has cost the "liquor interests" never a penny. Primarily it was not made in their interest. But as component parts of the general business fabric, welcome to what they have had, it will refuse even to seem a party to what it knows in advance must be a course of devious deal and dicker.

The voters of Kentucky have the opportunity in the coming election to clean up without burning down. They have the chance to slay the dragon of fanaticism and corruption, to lay the spectre of immoral upheaval hurrying to economic revolution. The Commonwealth needs a rest from agitations which mislead its energies and impede its progress. Four years of open, un-disguised Democracy in the State administration and the Legislature at Frankfort will give the people this. If they see it and seize it, they are safe. If they fail to see it and seize it, they are lost and Heaven help them, because all that has been foreshadowed in these columns, the rather more than less, will surely come to pass.

The numerous slides in the Panama canal lead one to the belief that the old ditch is about as reliable as the average politician.

A GREAT ADVERTISER

The Late Charles Frohman Believer in Publicity.

Charles Frohman was a great advertiser. If he had concentrated his abilities on obtaining publicity pure and simple, he would have died many times a millionaire. But his love of dramatic art and of the best of theatrical production. He was never at a loss for a means of arousing public interest in his offerings. This useful resource was exhibited at a very early age, as we see from the biography of the great manager which his brother, Daniel, and Isaac F. Marcom have written and which, replete with unique illustrations, both pictorial and documentary has just begun to appear in the Cosmopolitan Magazine. The following story, which shows the manner in which the biographers bring out the salient points of their subject's character, is a matter of history of the first tour of the Haverly Mastodon Minstrels, whose memory is still alive with the theatergoers of thirty-five or so years ago. Charles Frohman, only 19, but with several years of difficult experience "on the road," was the treasurer of the organization, not a post one would think of as liable to afford opportunities for attracting attention—but not so with the budding theatrical genius.

"It was on this first tour that Charles Frohman gave the first real expression of his talents for publicity. Everything about a minstrel company was showy and flashy. So Charles originated a unique idea of establishing a reputation for sobriety. He bought a small iron safe about three feet high. On it was painted in large gilt letters, 'Treasurer, Haverly's Mastodon Minstrels.'"

"In reality there was very little need for this safe, because 'Jack' Haverly's laudable demands for cash kept the company's coffers stripped of surplus."

"Charles says in this safe a spectacular means of advertising. It was put conspicuously on the top of the safe, a load of baggage that went to the safe. He always engaged at least a man to unload it from the truck, and then placed conspicuously in the hotel lobby and invariably drew a comment like this:

"See what this Haverly show has so much money that it is carrying off to hold it!"

"This was precisely the response Charles desired. No sooner was the safe unloaded in the lobby than Charles approached it with great ceremony, holding a bunch of one-dollar bills in his hand. This immediately attracted a crowd. With an admiring gallery, he would stow away the money. Just as soon as the crowd dispersed he would be back on the job of this 'prop' capital to where needed."—Cosmopolitan.

WHAT'S THIS?

C. & O. Posted Notices Warning Employees To Cease Filching With Other Men's Wives.

A notice bearing the name of Superintendent Bell, of the Huntington division of the C. & O. was posted in various offices of the C. & O. at Russell Tuesday warning members of the various C. & O. crews to cease "filching with the wives of certain residents in Ashland, Kenova and Huntington, while on their runs through these cities, as the husbands of these women had filed numerous complaints with the main office of the company and were now threatening suits for damages."

The notice created a furor in railroad circles in Ironton, Russell, Ashland, Kenova, Catlettsburg and Huntington, as the news of the posting at Russell soon spread over the entire division.

Wilson, the regular Republican nominee, has issued the following card: "To the Voters of Lewis County: I wish to thank my friends for their efforts in my behalf in placing my name on the ticket for Representative, but I must decline the honor, as I refuse to make the race on an Independent ticket, as I am a thoroughbred Democrat." HAD THE NERVE Negro Steals Liquor and Shoes and Gets Drunk On the Courthouse Steps in Ashland.

George Nola, a Boyd county negro, had an eventful day Wednesday.

After serving a term in jail he was released at 9 o'clock that morning. Later in the day he stole a quart of whisky, according to the authorities, and then picked up a pair of shoes at a cobbler shop.

He sat down on the steps of the Courthouse, changed his old shoes for the new he had taken, and then took a good "swig" of the liquor.

He was arrested a few minutes later by Chief of Police Johnson and is held on a charge of larceny.

RIVER NEWS.

The Ohio river is lower than it has been for the last year, and the wickets at all of the dams have been raised.

The Greene Line of boats will soon have a new boat in service. It is now being built at Point Pleasant. It is to be called the Chris. Greene, in honor of a son of Captain Gordon C. Greene.

The towboat Enquirer is coming up with a tow of two barge loads of wickets to be delivered at Ashland, Ky., at Dam 29. It required the services of twenty-five carpenters for one year to make them.

What was once the pride of the people of that section of Maysville east of Limestone creek—the Fifth Ward Landing—is now a wilderness of weeds, while the best grade in the city is several inches under mud. There was a time when this landing was the scene of much activity, on account of it being easy of access to the shippers of that section. The unloading of iron from the Pittsburgh packets in years gone by at this landing would consume several hours on each boat's down-trip, while thousands of plows have been taken over its one-time even surface and loaded on the steamers for the Southern markets. Things have changed and now if a Johnboat happened to land there the owner would be compelled to either stay in the boat or get some one to throw him a plank. Lots of freight is shipped by rail now that would go by river if there was anything like a decent place for the shippers to get their products to the bats. Let's revive the Fifth Ward Landing.

ANAEMIC PEOPLE

Need More Iron In the Blood.

If you are anaemic, you need more iron in your blood, and the tell-tale symptoms are a pale face, colorless lips, astringent finger nails, poor circulation, and short breath, and more serious diseases are easily contracted when in this condition.

Mr. W. H. Hodges, of Kansas City Mo., says: "I suffered from the effects of bad blood, was run-down, dizzy, had headaches and did not feel like working. I had tried Beef Iron and Wine without any help. After taking Vinol four days I noticed an improvement and its continued use built up my blood and my bad feelings disappeared like magic."

The bad effects of poor, devitalized blood can not be overestimated, and it is potentate of iron and the true cod liver extracts contained in Vinol, together with beef peptone, that enriches the blood improves the circulation and in this natural manner builds up health and strength. Try it on our guarantee.

John C. Pecor, Druggist, Maysville, Ky.

WHAT WOULD HAVE BEEN.

The general aspect of domestic business outside of war order activity compels some reflections on what state the business of the United States would be in if there had been no war. With tariff doors wide open upon many industries, some of which had already closed down before the war on account of foreign competition, and with railroad rates being steadily crushed downward (the eastern railroads would not have been granted except for the war), we can imagine that the country would already have reached universal depression and hard times, with more rapid bankruptcy for railroads even than is now taking place. —Farm Loans and City Bonds.

How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Kept Her in Health for 14 Years.

Shippensburg, Pa.—"It was several years ago that I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I then suffered terribly every month. My husband bought me a bottle of it and it helped me right away. Then after my second child was born I had a female trouble very badly and I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and in a short time was cured and have been in excellent health since. I always praise the Compound whenever I have an opportunity as I know it helped me and will help others. I have given the Compound to my daughter and I wish all suffering women would take it and be convinced of its worth."—Mrs. JAMES A. BEIDEL, 113 N. Penn Street, Shippensburg, Pa.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.
